2012 Commitment Form

A full-season's share includes at least 22 weeks of produce distributed weekly at the farm, June 6 through mid- November, 2012 (we may get an extra week of vegetables, depending on weather—you will be notified). A week's share ranges from 5 to 16 pounds of vegetables depending on the time of the season. This share size is suited for 1–4 adults depending heavily on personal veggie consumption and cooking habits.

Summer only (June–Labor Day) shares are available, as well as a limited number of work shares.

All shares include a variety of pick-your-own (PYO) crops such as peas, beans, cherry tomatoes, cut flowers and fresh herbs as well as a weekly newsletter with occasionally inspired words from your farmer, information on the vegetables and the farm, recipes and food prep suggestions.

Members will chose one pick-up day: either Tuesday afternoons, between 3 and 7 pm or Saturday mornings from 10 am until noon. Members may only pick up vegetables on their chosen day (i.e. may not alternate pick-up days or use the other timeslot as a back-up time). If you are running late on your pick-up day, we can hold your share for you for 24 hours if you call before or during pick-up hours to make this arrangement. Unclaimed shares will be donated to an appropriate recipient.

Volunteering on the farm is highly encouraged but optional. Members may help in the field, in the office, on the road or at the distribution table. For those who would like to make a structured work commitment, a limited number of work shares will be available for the 2012 season.

Payment in full is requested at time of registration, providing Farm Girl Farm with operating capital at the beginning of the growing season when its most needed. If you are unable to pay in full upon registration, you may make a deposit of $275, followed by two equal payments of $175 due March 31 and May 31.
